Lump Sum on Death Nomination Guidance Notes

If you die while serving, provided you were an active member of the NFPS 2006 or FPS 2015 at the time of your death, a lump sum death grant of three times your annual pensionable pay at the time will be paid to:

- Your spouse or civil partner
- Someone you have previously successfully nominated as a qualifying partner
- Or to someone else you have nominated if you are not married or in a civil partnership (this is at the discretion of Scottish Fire & Rescue Service).

Otherwise, the payment will be made to your personal representative, usually the executor of your will, which means it will form part of your estate.

Please note that a nomination does not override the provision that the grant will in the first place go to your surviving spouse or civil partner, if you have one. But it would take effect if you have no spouse or civil partner or if both you and your spouse or civil partner were to die at the same time.

Unless you tell the SPPA otherwise, this will be paid to your spouse, civil partner or qualifying partner and will normally be tax free.

If no beneficiary is nominated and you do not have a spouse or civil partner, the lump sum can only be paid to your estate and so may be subject to Inheritance Tax.
